

QUESTIONS AND SPANISH STUDENTS' ANSWERS

QUESTION 1

What did it mean for you being a European citizen?

QUESTION 2

Had you ever been in contact with other European guys?

QUESTION 3

Find three adjectives and/or nouns that define a person as someone "different" from you

QUESTION 4

Name two activities in which you have participated that have made you change your way of thinking

1. I didn't really feel any special feeling being European, but in this trip I realised that we have more advantages for travelling in Europe. As a European citizen, we don't need passports, just the ID and that makes travelling much easier
2. No, this is my first time in contact with other European guys
3. Languages, customs and clothes
4. Just the fact of coming here changed my way of thinking about European countries because I was able to see that they are more closely together than I thought. The countries of the European Union have many things in common and this project has allowed us to see it.

1. To have better and more opportunities on education and healthcare
2. Yes, I had been in contact with lots of European people on my summer holidays in Morocco. That means, Europeans out of Europe
3. Different fashion, different way of thinking
4. The visits to the different schools changed my way of thinking because I thought that all European Union countries had the same educational system, but there are many differences. Also the Eurodesk Ambassador Project because it has shown me that I have the chance to have more experiences

1. Being European means that we have lots of privileges because of the free public services, because of the studies and because of things that are cheaper than in other countries.
2. No, this is the first time
3. Friendly, exciting, kind, funny
4. I didn't think there were so many ancient settlements in Sardinia. Sometimes I thought that people may be bad or unkind, but it isn't true. It has always been the opposite.

1. I'm not a European citizen (I'm from the Dominican Republic), but I think being European offers advantages, for example in education or healthcare. It is also easier to travel. Coming from a different country I can see the possibilities that the European Union offers to its citizens
2. This is the first time I meet other European guys and I can see many differences in their characters, personality, food...
3. Different personality, different styles, different culture and language
4. Activities like speaking in front of other people make me realise that I don't have to be embarrassed because of my English. Speaking out loud is the way we learn and the way we can improve.

1. Being European brings you opportunities to study in other European countries with programmes like Erasmus
2. Yes, once I went to Switzerland and I realised that people act more seriously than in Spain, so at that moment I knew that every country has their own way of being, behaving and acting
3. They dress differently, for example Greek girls wear different clothes than me. They also have their own traditional things and way of thinking
4. When we went to Nora, I realised that Sardinia has a lot of history to show and also during the tour in Cagliari I saw that everything in town has its own history

1. Firstly I didn't feel anything special because if I were from Asia and America, I would still be the same person. But I think that being European and being in the European Union allows you some advantages such as not carrying your passport when you travel, only your ID
2. I had, but not in real life until now. I had an app called "Discord" where I can chat with other people from different countries about different topics. But now this project has allowed me to meet people from Greece, Italy and Poland and it's exciting because we can share our languages, cultures and habits.
3. Differences, new culture, languages
4. I'd say coming to the high school, because on the first day we learnt things about the European Union and it was very interesting to listen to. Also today we can share our opinions on different topics from different perspectives depending on your country.